African Aeronautics & Space Organisation

THE AFRICAN AERONAUTICS & SPACE ORGANISATION

The African Aeronautics & Space Organisation (AASO) is a non-profit organisation established in 2016 by African scientists and decision-makers to contribute to the sustainable development of the continent. Based in Europe for reasons of proximity to the industry and the European aerospace scientific community, it has representatives in Benin, Burkina Faso, Côte d'Ivoire, Gabon, Ghana and Nigeria.

AASO has 3 missions:

- 1. Contribute to the development of aeronautical and space sciences on the African continent.
- 2. Promote and establish partnership development projects related to aeronautics and space sciences using local skills and those of the African diaspora.
- 3. Promote the pooling of African space resources to improve living conditions in Africa.

THE AFRICAN AERONAUTICS & SPACE INNOVATION TROPHY (ASIT)

Every two years, the African Aeronautics & Space Organisation (AASO) awards the prestigious African Aeronautics & Space Innovation Trophy (ASIT) to a leading figure from Africa or the Diaspora. This award recognises outstanding individuals whose remarkable actions in the field of aerospace science and technology directly contribute to the sustainable development of the African continent. More than just a celebration of achievement, ASIT aims to inspire, foster innovation and promote strategic initiatives to address Africa's scientific and economic challenges.

THE ASIT 2023 EDITION

The recipient of the ASIT 2023 was the Rwanda Space Agency (RSA). ASIT honoured CEO Francis NGABO and his exceptional team in Kigali, Rwanda, for their outstanding achievements:

THE ASIT 2021 EDITION

The recipient of the ASIT 2021 is Dr Abimbola Alalé, CEO of Nigeria Communications Satellite (NigComSat). She received the award on 28/10/2021 at the Aeroclub de France in Paris.

THE ASIT 2019 EDITION

The 2019 ASIT recipient is Burkina Faso's Minister for the Digital Economy, Post and Digital Transformation, Minister Adja Ouattara/Sanon.

PROGRAMM OF THE 4TH EDITION ASIT

AASO is organising the award ceremony on 27 Marc 2026 at the NATIONAL AIR AND SPACE MUSEUM OF FRANCE, PARIS - LE BOURGET. The event will bring together manufacturers, public and private institutions, researchers, students, specialist journalists and the event's partners.

During this event, you will be able to meet high-level African personalities in the aeronautical and space field and discover the many strengths of Africa in aeronautical and space as well as the commercial partnerships to be developed there.

Through these three round tables

- “The Current State of the African Space Sector”,
- “Who will make Africa fly tomorrow? building an African aviation sector- from training and recruitment to operations and industrial development”,
- “Insights from African Space Cooperation Projects”, its exhibition space, and networking opportunities, the event will provide a unique chance for business-to-business meetings and networking between stakeholders in the aeronautics and space industry alongside the challenges of the 21st century.
